

RB Farquhar

case study

Client: Limelight

Project: Rock Ness: Supply of Dressing Rooms and Toilets for Music Festival

Client need:

Rock Ness was a new event to be held on the shores of Loch Ness. The dance music festival was expected to attract an audience of 20,000. In the dynamic world of music promotion, requirements change rapidly. The promoters, Limelight, only had one chance to get this event right and needed to have absolute confidence in their suppliers to get it right on the day.

Our solution:

RB Farquhar were able to respond to the client's changing requirements. We supplied two hundred portable loos to the event and dressing rooms and luxury loos for the performers. We supplied personnel to ensure that our units met the required standard throughout the day and met the client's requirements for installation before the event and removed the units as soon as the festival was over.
